Sunnhild Reinckens : Making Dolls before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Making Dolls:

13 of 15 people found the following review helpful. Highly recommended resource By Carlin R. Davis This is a great source for making dolls for children. Great for beginners as well as experienced dollmakers. I only wish that there were more patterns to follow instead of leaving the general patternmaking to the dollmaker.

This little book with its many colour photographs and simple diagrams describes how to make seventeen different kinds of doll : for instance a cuddly doll for toddlers, a large baby doll, finger puppets, gnomes, dolls for a doll's house, and many others. There are clear instructions on how to form the head, create different hair-styles, indicate the features of the face, and make the body of the doll.

About the Author Sunnhild Reinckens lives in Hanover, West Germany. There and in many other places she holds courses for children, mothers, fathers and grandparents. She believes it is better that people make a simple doll, however modest an affair, than to buy one in the shop for their children.
