About the Author Donna has been sewing since the age of four and quilting since 1975. She began teaching in 1981. While an army wife, she lived in Germany for four years and routinely taught quilting at a German shop and at various quilt guilds throughout the country. Long out of the Army, the Thomases have settled in Kansas for good, although Donna's teaching still takes her around the country. The author of many quilting titles with Martingale, she has also contributed articles on various quilt-related subjects to numerous publications over the years.
